The Fascination of Top-Class Sports

Sporting events in Stuttgart

World-class sports, outstanding athletes and shows that can't fail to grip audiences: Stuttgart's calendar of events has a wide range of sporting events with international sporting aces throughout the year.

The world's highest-ranking women tennis players will come to Stuttgart to compete in the 48th edition of the Porsche Tennis Grand Prix from 12th to 21st April 2025. Each year this sporting event attracts spectators to a breathtaking show in the Porsche Arena. Ambition, skill, daring and clever tactics guarantee lots of excitement on the Centre Court.

Game, set and match: From 7th to 15th June 2025 tennis aces will once more take to the green lawns of the Weissenhof in Stuttgart for the BOSS OPEN. Their goal is to score 250 WTA ranking points and win the victor's prize of a car from Mercedes-Benz, the title sponsor.

A hard-fought race: the ADAC Supercross is definitely not for the faint-hearted. For the 41st time now, on 7th and 8th November 2025, the Schleyer Hall will be transformed into a spectacular and challenging racetrack with 2000 cubic metres of native soil from the Filder plateau, where competitors will risk all to present their heart-stopping aerial acrobatics.

From two wheels to tripping the light fantastic: Once a year the Liederhalle becomes a mecca for dance enthusiasts. At the German Open Championships amateurs and professionals compete for the coveted titles and prize money for Standard and Latin-American dances. From 19th to 23rd August 2025 the dancers will take to the boards for the 37th time and shake the floor of Stuttgart's Liederhalle.

The world's leading gymnasts will meet to compete for the EnBW DTB Cup at the Porsche Arena in Stuttgart from 27th to 30th March 2025. Not just one, but two competitions – the multi-discipline World Cup and the team challenge – will be held at the same time, though judged separately.

Traditional, family-friendly and international, with top-calibre horsemanship – this has been the reputation of the Stuttgart German Masters for over three decades. Five days long – from 12th to 16th November 2025 – world-class equestrian sports can be seen at the Schleyer Hall. Around 160 riders and more than 300 horses compete in four disciplines and three World Cup classes.
