Festivities in the Stuttgart Region

From the Staufer Spectacle to the Krautfest

Events are to be found all over the Stuttgart Region throughout the year 2025: from the sociable "Hocketse" (an informal get-together) to the "Krautfest".

In the Stuttgart Region there are many towns with timbered houses, and these attract visitors in the summer months with their splendid street and city festivals. One of the biggest and oldest of them is found in Backnang. From 27th to 30th June the 53rd Backnang Street Festival will be held, and there will be no shortage of culinary delicacies. On each of these days there are also music and dance groups to provide plenty of entertainment.

From 27th to 29th June the town of Waiblingen will once again celebrate its "Altstadtfest" in the historical town centre. The festival is organised solely by Waiblingen's clubs and organisations and attracts more than 100.000 visitors annually. In the Middle Ages Waiblingen was ruled by the Staufer dynasty, so parallel to the Old Town Festival this is celebrated with the Staufer Spectacle. A knights' tournament, archery competitions, entertainers and a medieval market transport visitors back to the 12th and 13th centuries.

For five days, from 18th to 22nd July, the timbered houses bordering Schorndorf's marketplace provide the backdrop for the "SchoWo", the Schorndorf Town Festival. Visitors can look forward to a programme of cultural events, music and good food.

The ESTIVAL Esslingen – a new festival to be held from 1st August to 13th August – promises a summer packed with enjoyment. For 13 days, some 20 wooden booths will stand in the middle of Esslingen's historical half-timbered buildings on the Marketplace/Rathausplatz and serve specialities cooked by chefs from Esslingen and the surrounding region. In addition to this local cuisine, a daily cultural programme invites guests to linger.

The "Filderkraut" (cabbage) is the star of the traditional "Krautfest" in Leinfelden-Echterdingen. It has been grown here for centuries, because it only flourishes on the fertile loess-loam of the Filder plateau. This flavoursome subvariety of white cabbage is listed as an important and endangered regional species in the Slow Food Foundation's "Ark of Taste". At the Krautfest from 18th and 19th October, this delicious vegetable can be enjoyed in the form of sauerkraut, stuffed cabbage leaves or Echterdingen cabbage tart, to name but a few.

The Fellbach Autumn Festival ("Fellbacher Herbst"), one of the best-known harvest and wine festivals, has been celebrated since 1948. At the "Weinbrunnen" (wine fountain), the inner courtyard of the town hall and in the cosy wine taverns there are lots of specialities on offer in the way of food and drink. This year the Fellbach Autumn Festival will be held from 10th to 13th October.
